The following supply trips from the Ziethen Kaserne were made by truck [redacted] with trailer during the period from 29 May to 5 June 1952:

29 May. Shipment of 2,350 loaves of bread from the army bakery at Albertsheim to Altengrabow.

30 May. Shipment of 60 sacks of flour containing 110 kg each from the mill at Ziesar to Altengrabow warehouse.

31 May. Shipment of 34 sacks of 100 kg of flour each from the mill at Milow, and rice and cereals from the warehouse near the Altstadt railroad station in Brandenburg/Havel, to Altengrabow, warehouse.

5 June. Shipment of 800 loaves of bread, cereals and PX articles from Albertsheim to Altengrabow warehouse. (1) It was determined that the warehouse in Altengrabow was located near the cooperative stores in the northwestern sector of the troop training grounds. A sergeant working in the warehouse stated on 5 June that the battalion from the Ziethen Kaserne was no longer at the training grounds but had already moved beyond Magdeburg (M 51/D 69). [redacted] there was considerably less activity in Camp Altengrabow on 1 June than was observed there in the preceding years at that time.

10. On 18 May, 32 factory-new motor vehicles arrived by rail at the Rathenow railroad station and were consigned to the unit in the Ziethen Kaserne.

[redacted] In exchange, 32 old trucks were delivered to a Volkspolizei unit in Klietz on 27 and 28 May.

11. On 13 June, the Infanterie Kaserne at Nordbahnhof quartered about 35 officers and about 180 EM, the Pionier Kaserne on Adolf Breitscheid Strasse, 35 officers and 200 EM, and the Kraftfahrer Kaserne on Semliner Strasse, about 40 officers and 230 EM. The former German officers' billets between the Infanterie Kaserne and Pionier Kaserne housed about 120 uniformed women. After 9 June, the rear details of all barracks installations were engaged in training at Semlin Heath. The practice included training with 120-mm field howitzers which had been hauled to the place by prime movers [redacted] submachine gun firing, throwing of hand grenades, entrenching practice and surveying duty. (1) New target ranges were under construction near the former German Marinesiedlung at Semlin Heath during the period from 7 to 13 June. The old target ranges were to be torn down.

12. On 11 and 12 June, a total of eight tank cars with gasoline arrived at the Nordbahnhof. They were drained into six tank trucks, including [redacted]

13. During the period from 7 to 13 June, it was repeatedly observed that motor vehicles [redacted] allegedly, of British make, hauled radio equipment from the repair shop in the former Mitsch and Guenther plant to the 25X1 [redacted] Comments.

(1) The observation of rear details in the three barracks installations as reported in paragraphs 2, 3, 6, 7, 9 and 11, confirm until 21 June 1952 the units of the 6th Army Div as being absent from the post for practices at Altengrabow. See [redacted]

25X1 [redacted] The battalion, [redacted] presumably is the 621st

25X1 Observe HQ of the IV Arty Corps in the Dietrich Kaserne. Elements of the battalion possibly moved to Altengrabow at the end of May 1952. This conclusion is confirmed

25X1 [redacted] the barracks installation to have been occupied only lightly in mid-June. [redacted]

(2) The transfer of the motor vehicle and electrical repair shop can be considered completed on 21 June 1952. Reasons for this transfer are not known. The two troop shipments from Rathenow to Luckenwalde on 16 and 18 June 1952 may have been in connection with this transfer. [redacted] Further information is required whether shipments went to the area east of Berlin.
